

Western Canadian Coal

BE A PART OF SPECTACULAR GROWTH

If you're looking to hitch your career to an exciting and expanding West Coast organization, this may be the one. On its journey from junior exploration company to mainstream producer, Western Canadian Coal has two successful mines in operation and one on the verge. With abundant wildlife and wonderful outdoor recreational activities, Tumbler Ridge in North East British Columbia is a great setting for one of their growing operations. Isolated but with easy access to larger communities such as Fort St. John, Dawson Creek and Grande Prairie, it is a beautiful rural community in which you can build your life and your career. The company is seeking a few proven leaders for this location to help fuel its growth:

As Manager, Maintenance, you will budget, plan and direct all mine equipment maintenance activities at the site. Provide operational and technical guidance to your team. Work closely with the Production Department. Furnish quality service while containing costs. Project 8905.

In this key role as Senior Mine Engineer, your mission is to develop mining concepts, direct pit and dump designs and prepare mine plans and schedules in support of feasibility studies, permit applications, development and operations. Project 8906.

Reporting to the Manager, Maintenance, your performance as Senior Maintenance Planner will minimize disruption and ensure the smooth flow of systematic maintenance with all equipment. Oversee maintenance materials supply. Institute new methods and procedures. Project 8907.

As Process Engineer, you will oversee a wide range of complex engineering tasks related to process control, optimization, quality assurance and laboratory operations. Keeps informed of current technologies and recommends changes to operating practices. Project 8908.
