“Recognition of Association members for outstanding contributions to CSM and the Community at-large”

While employer recognition of work well done through raises, promotions and awards is important, the acknowledgement of excellence by co-workers and peers is often regarded as the most valued praise that one can receive. The Association of Classified Employees is the logical organization to deliver this kind of incentive at CSM. ACE should sponsor an annual event or events at which members are spotlighted for both positive attitude and outstanding contributions to the success of the institution and for serving as ambassadors of goodwill to the surrounding community.
