The Mining Engineer
Performed by the Colorado School of Mines Pep Band

Welcome Barbecue to follow for students and families on Kafadar Commons
Colorado School of Mines is a public R1 research university focused on engineering and applied science, producing the talent, knowledge and solutions to serve industry and benefit society – all to create a more prosperous future.

Founded in 1874 as an institution specializing in silver and gold, Mines has since expanded its mission well beyond the extraction and use of natural resources. While still a powerhouse in mining, petroleum and earth sciences, the university has become a world leader in advancing responsible stewardship of the Earth, discovering and synthesizing new materials and developing innovative ways of harnessing traditional and novel energy sources.

Mines students graduate with a strong sense of integrity, resilience, confidence in tackling new problems, the ability to work in collaborative environments, an enhanced sense of responsibility to promote positive change in the world and pride in their Mines degree.

M Climb

One of the most iconic parts of Mines is the M on the side of Mt. Zion. The M was constructed in 1908 when 250 Mines students and 20 faculty members loaded a supply train of burros and trekked up the mountain.

Over the years, changes have been made to make the M more visible. Members of Mines’ chapter of the Blue Key Honor Society, a national leadership and service group, maintain the M. In 1931, the group borrowed a tractor, generator, poles, wires and bulbs to light the M for that year’s homecoming. The first lighting was such a huge hit that students and civic committees raised money to permanently light the monument in 1932.

The lighting was made fully automatic in 1948, and the lighting system was later upgraded with wiring and conduit upgrades. The original lights were replaced with multi-bulbed weatherproof fixtures. The lighting was computerized in 2003 with a wireless antenna system developed by a Mines Senior Design team. In 2008, Blue Key replaced the M’s 1,653 incandescent light bulbs with energy efficient LEDs.

Each fall, incoming students are invited to carry a 10-pound rock from the Mines Campus up Mt. Zion and coat the M in a fresh coat of whitewash. Graduating seniors then are welcome to return to the M in their final semester to retrieve a rock as a fitting close to their Mines journey.

E-Days

For three days each spring, Mines students put the stress of studying aside and celebrate Engineering Days (E-Days).

Highlights include the traditional (and legendary) fireworks show at Brooks Field, the ore-cart pull to Downtown Denver where Colorado’s Governor reads an E-Day proclamation, live entertainment, engineering-themed games, a cardboard canoe race down Clear Creek and more.

Mines Band

The traditional Mines Marching Band wears red and black plaid shirts, jeans, hiking boots and hard hats making it a unique presence among university bands. The band was established more than 50 years ago and has a rich tradition of performing for the school and community.
Silver Diplomas

While the degrees granted by Colorado School of Mines are valuable and unique, so are the diplomas themselves. The Mines silver diploma is a long-standing tradition dating back to 1933 when Charles A. Hull engraved a silver diploma that caught the eye of then President Melville F. Coolbaugh, who asked that silver diplomas be made for all Mines Graduates.

Starting with the commencement of 1934, Mines began issuing silver diplomas, measuring five by six inches and etched into pure sterling silver. Creating these diplomas required two workers spending six weeks (or 500 hours) making 19 delicate etchings in each diploma. Today the tradition of metal diplomas continues, with all students receiving a silver and nickel plated diploma upon graduation from Mines.

The Book: De Re Metallica

The Mines faculty senate president leads the academic portion of the commencement procession, carrying a replica of the 16th-century treatise De Re Metallica. Widely regarded as the seminal text on mining and the science of metallurgy, this historic volume serves as a symbol of the body of knowledge shared by Mines’ faculty and students.

The book’s opening marks the start of the commencement ceremony and also recalls the beginning of the students’ education at the school. The ceremony’s end is signified by the closing of the book.

A first edition of De Re Metallica, written by Georg Bauer under the pseudonym Agricola and printed in 1556, resides in the vault of Mines’ Arthur Lakes Library, as does a subsequent edition printed in 1621. In addition to these original texts, the library also houses several copies of Herbert Hoover’s 1912 translation from Latin.

University Mace

The Mines faculty senate distinguished lecturer carries the mace, which has a rich history as a symbol of authority going back to the 13th century. In commencement processions, the mace is carried before the president and the dignitaries in the platform party. The mace’s core is a rosewood staff, covered by fitted brass and cast bronze, silver-plated and topped by Mines’ mascot, Blaster. Mines Professor Emeritus Robert Taylor executed the design and Mr. Emil Dangreau produced the finished standard with the official school seal photoengraved on the base of the staff.
MINES ALMA MATER

Raise your voices engineers, your devotion sing
To the greatest School of Mines, let the chorus ring
Hail to thee, C.S.M. to our hearts most dear
Ev’ry miner lauds name and ev’ry engineer

Honor, glory to thy name, these we pledge anew
While we live to sing thy fame, Alma Mater true
Hail to thee School of Mines, silver and blue
Ev’ry miner sings thy praise, Alma Mater true

‘THE MINING ENGINEER’

I wish I had a barrel of rum and sugar three hundred pounds,
The college bell to mix it in and a clapper to stir it ‘round,
Like every honest fellow, I take my whiskey clear,
I’m a ramblin’ wreck from Golden Tech, a helluva engineer.

A helluva, helluva, helluva, helluva, helluva engineer.
A helluva, helluva, helluva, helluva, helluva engineer.

Like every honest fellow, I take my whiskey clear,
I’m a ramblin’ wreck from Golden Tech, a helluva engineer.
Hail, hail, the gang’s all here.
What the hell do we care as long as we get our share.
Hail, hail, the gang’s all here.
M-I-N-E-S
What the hell do we care now?
